

The Artist Among Us is...

Natasha Dikareva is a Ukrainian-born artist known for her powerful, poetic and evocative sculptures. She currently splits her time between Newmarket and Sarasota, working on series-based sculptures that reflect her personal life and the events around the world. From the mythical forest creatures inspired by New England wildlife to the haunting images of war-torn Ukraine, her work showcases the range and depth of her artistic vision.

Natasha's work has been featured in various publications, including 500 Prints on Clay and New Ceramics European magazine, and garnered several prizes, such as the Grand Prize at the American Museum of Ceramic Art in 2012.

She exhibits locally and internationally and her work is held in public and private collections.

Recently, she has been featured on public radio and television, where she has spoken about her artistic process and her reflections on the latest events in Ukraine. Her unique vision and dedication to her work continues to make her an important voice in the contemporary art world.
